

Keys to Helping Children Be Happy and Successful

Have fun and interact as you take care of children's basic needs.

Protect children from stress and danger.

“The best way to help very young children get ready to do well in school is to give them warm, responsive, and consistent care when they are little.”

Rethinking the Brain Families and Work Institute

Support children as they try new things

Help children learn to “Do it myself!”

Accept and name feelings.

Communicate back and forth.

Watch children's signals. Sometimes they need comfort rather than stimulation.
