The CNRED Program extends knowledge and facilitates learning with the objective of creating positive change in the community; provides relevant community development programs to public officials, community leaders, and the general public.

The Family Living Program helps families improve their economic security, generates local poverty awareness and increases understanding, and builds community connections.

4-H Youth Development helps local groups assess and improve their youth programs while supporting and empowering young people to make a difference in their community.

The program also facilitates efforts in such areas as needs assessment, public policy education, local government education, organizational development, and citizen participation.

The Douglas County Nutrition Education Program (NEP) helps Food Share eligible families make healthy food choices and choose active lifestyles.

Community Youth Development assists youth and adults working together in positions of authority to make decisions and take action to strengthen organizations, communities, and our democratic society.
