Grandparents Caring for Grandchildren

Increasingly, grandparents are taking care of their grandchildren. They may have legal custody, provide food and shelter but have no legal custody or provide daily care but have no parental responsibilities for their grandchild(ren). In all of these cases, grandparent caregivers face unique challenges in caring for their grandchildren.

Developed by specialists at the University of Wisconsin-Extension, the Wisconsin Families – Issues and Demographics, Grandparents Caring for Grandchildren series and accompanying PowerPoint is designed to provide current, research-based information and county-specific data about grandparent caregivers in Wisconsin. Topics include: why grandparents become caregivers; what caregiving costs grandparents; the physical and emotional impact on grandparent caregivers; the joy grandparents find in caregiving; how you can help; and community resources for family caregivers.
