Subject: Re: [EMTC] Pandemic planning on your campus for tech support

We have just designated key server and application support personnel as "essential" These have further been divided in group by who has to be on campus, and who can work from off campus. It is assumed that we will be able to keep all systems running but the support requirements may get stretched a bit if all classes will have to be delivered on-line. It is assumed that any continuation will be asynchronous. All classes already have a D2L site automatically created by integration with our registration system, but we'd have to bring a lot of people who are marginally familiar with it up to speed. It would particularly stretch our instructional design support.
