Brief Outline of Project: This barn was converted into a shop about 1952. Conversion included paneling the front as it is now. The back was left pretty much in its original condition (although if this was a dairy barn, the stanchions and gutters have been removed and the floor repoured). The whitewash is still on the walls. It has been a gift shop and clothing store ever since, with the current owner arriving in 1956. The foundation of an old silo is visible outside the barn with a large birch tree growing in the center.
